

SONICS ALL-TIME ROSTER

40TH ANNIVERSARY

32 Fred Brown

"Downtown" Freddie Brown, the captain of the 1978-79 World Championship team, played each of his 13 seasons in the NBA with the Sonics.

Brown joined Seattle as the seventh pick in the 1971 NBA Draft after two years at the University of Iowa. He retired in 1984 as the Sonics' all-time leader in games played (963), scoring (14,018), field goals (6,006) and steals (1,149). He currently ranks second in games played, scoring and field-goals made, and is third in steals. He also ranks third in minutes (24,422), third in assists (3,160), and sixth in free-throws made (1,896). His 58-point outburst at Golden State on March 23, 1974 remains the best single-game scoring total in franchise history.

Brown is one of the most popular players to don a Sonics uniform. For years, he purchased as many as 200 season tickets that he distributed to disadvantaged youth.

In 1985, at one of Brown's first post-retirement public appearances, Mayor Charles Royer proclaimed Feb. 11, 1985 to be "Fred Brown Day." The Milwaukee native continues to reside in Seattle and is employed by Bank of America.

Brown is the only Sonics player ever to wear No. 32, which was retired on Nov. 6, 1986 during a game against the Dallas Mavericks.

10 Nate McMillan

During his playing days, Nate McMillan epitomized what it meant to be team-oriented and to be a proud member of the Sonics. Known to local residents as "Mr. Sonics," McMillan spent his entire 12-year playing career with Seattle and retired as the Sonics' all-time leader in assists and steals. McMillan ranks among the Sonics all-time top-10 in 10 separate statistical categories.

On Nov. 27, 2000, after serving as assistant coach for two-plus seasons, McMillan was named Sonics interim head coach. As the 12th head coach in the franchise's history and at the time the youngest in the NBA, he made his debut the following day with a 105-93 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers at the Rose Garden. Two nights later, he coached his first home game, leading the Sonics to a 121-88 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers at KeyArena. The win against L.A. was the team's second-largest margin of victory in the 2000-01 season. Under his leadership, the Sonics swept their season series 4-0 against the Lakers for just the second time in franchise history (1993-94).

The Sonics removed the interim status from his title on Jan. 5, 2000 and signed him to a four-year contract on March 27 of that year. He guided the Sonics to the playoffs in the 2001-02 season and in 2004-05.

One of the top defensive players in the NBA, McMillan was named to the All-NBA Defensive Second Team in 1994 and 1995. He led the league in steals in 1993-94, averaging a career-high 2.96 per game.

On Feb. 23, 1987 vs. the L.A. Clippers, McMillan tied the single-game rookie assist record when he handed out a career-high 25 — a record he still shares with Ernie DiGregorio. During his 12-year career, the Sonics qualified for the postseason 11 times. He has appeared in more playoff games (98) than anyone in team history.

McMillan's No. 10 was retired on March 24, 1999 during a game vs. the Washington Wizards.

43 Jack Sikma

When the Sonics won the NBA Championship in 1979, Jack Sikma was in the middle of it all.

The 6-11 product of Illinois Wesleyan University was selected by the Sonics with the eighth pick in the 1977 NBA Draft. Over the next nine seasons, Sikma, notorious for his distinguishing blond locks, was stationed at the center of the Sonics' frontcourt. Sikma played in all 82 games per season for six Sonics campaigns and missed only 23 games during his nine years with the team.

Sikma became only the third Sonics player to grab 1,000 rebounds in a season, and carried his tenacity on the boards into the playoffs in his second season. He saved his best for the 1979 NBA Finals against Washington, grabbing 17 rebounds per contest in Games 3, 4 and 5, and helping the Sonics capture the title.

Sikma was traded to Milwaukee in 1986, leaving the Sonics with more rebounds (7,729), blocked shots (705) and free-throws made (3,044) than any player in team history. He still holds the top spot on the rebounding and free-throws-made list, and ranks second in blocked shots, third in points (12,034) and fourth in games played (715).

Sikma retired after the 1990-91 season and returned to the Seattle area. He currently serves as assistant coach for the Sonics. No Sonics player has worn No. 43 since Sikma, and no player ever will. His jersey was hoisted to the arena's rafters during a halftime ceremony on Nov. 21, 1992 when the Sonics hosted the Detroit Pistons.

19 Lenny Wilkens

Only a few people in the world have the talent to become players in the NBA. Even fewer have what it takes to be a successful coach in the league. So note the rare talent of Lenny Wilkens who, for three seasons with the Sonics, did both at the same time.

Wilkens was drafted in the first round by the St. Louis Hawks in the 1960 NBA Draft. He spent eight seasons in St. Louis before joining Seattle in 1968-69, the second season in the league for the Sonics. He averaged a career-best 22.4 points that season and was named player/head coach for Seattle prior to the 1969-70 season.

Wilkens assaulted the Sonics record books during his four years as a player in a green and gold uniform. He still ranks fifth on the Sonics' all-time roster in free-throws made and attempted, as well as assists (2,777). Wilkens is also eighth in scoring average (19.5 ppg). In 1971, Wilkens was named the NBA All-Star Game MVP.

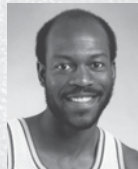

As a coach, Wilkens led the Sonics to their first winning season in 1971-72 — the team's fifth year in the league. After that year, he finished his playing career with two seasons in Cleveland and one in Portland, before returning to coach the Sonics in 1977-78.

The season he returned to the Emerald City, Wilkens accomplished what many believe to be one of the greatest feats in coaching history. In November of 1977, he took over a team that started the season 5-17, and led them to a 47-35 finish. He then coached the squad to a seventh game of the NBA Finals against Washington.

Wilkens led the Sonics back to the Finals the next season, and Seattle came away with its first and only NBA Championship.

A testament to Wilkens' coaching ability is his longevity. He compiled a 478-402 record with Seattle before being promoted to Sonics vice president and general manager in 1985.

Wilkens was the only Sonics player ever to wear No. 19. His number was retired in a ceremony on Oct. 19, 1979 during a Seattle win over San Diego.

1 Gus Williams

From his point-guard position, Gus Williams energized the Sonics' 1978-79 World Championship team and provided excitement for fans with his dazzling fast-break moves.

Known as "The Wizard," Williams had little opportunity to show his unique ability during two seasons with the Golden State Warriors, who picked him in the second round of the 1975 NBA Draft. Williams became a free agent and chose the Sonics because they were willing to give him a three-year guaranteed contract. It was one of the most fortuitous transactions in Sonics history.

When Lenny Wilkens took over as Sonics coach early in the 1977-78 season, he made Williams his point guard, and Williams would lead the Sonics to consecutive NBA Finals appearances. It was in the 1979 Finals, as the Sonics defeated the Washington Bullets four games to one, that Williams really shined, leading the team in scoring all five games and averaging 28.6 points per game.

Williams would go on to make two All-NBA teams in six years in Seattle before being traded to the Bullets after the 1983-84 campaign. He remains one of just seven players in Sonics history and the only point guard to average better than 20 points per game during his Seattle career. Williams also ranks fifth in Sonics history in points and fourth in both assists and steals.

Williams was one of three players in Sonics history to wear No. 1. The jersey number was retired in his honor on March 26, 2004 during a halftime ceremony of the Seattle vs. Denver game that also celebrated the 25th anniversary of the '79 Sonics championship team.
